

Saving Money AND Serving the Community

Cities and counties across Kentucky are facing smaller budgets and higher costs. Utility expenses can impact the budget. Fortunately, there are solutions. MACED has worked with a number of communities to analyze how energy and money can be saved at police stations, fire stations, county courthouses, and other city facilities.

Common, energy-using systems to consider::

- Overhead lighting and exit signs
- Heating and cooling systems
- Computers, printers, copiers and faxes
- Appliances

Problem areas often include:

- Outdated lighting systems
- Air leaks through exterior walls, windows and doors
- Ductwork that is cracked, disconnected or damaged
- Insufficient insulation levels

If your city or county would like help reducing its energy bills, please contact MACED's Energy Efficient Enterprises team at 859-986-2373.
